 Will Have a Part in

True to the promise made by the Glendale Post No. 127 American Legion to the people of Glendale, the Armistice Day parade on Friday will be the largest ever held in this city.
 Already the number of entrants have made it necessary to line up the parade in four divisions. The fiesta and carnival which starts today will end with the Armistice Day celebration of which the parade in the morning will be the leading feature.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock sharp and travel along the following route:

WHAT'S THE USE ASKS MITCHELL IN CHAMBER PRIMARY

If Men Must be What is Wanted, There Are None
 Available Here

A primary election for directors of the chamber of commerce for the ensuing year is now being held. But what's the use? If the assertion of Alex Mitchell of North Glendale is correct the local chamber will be compelled to function without the assistance of a board of directors, for is, unless Secretary Rhoades journey over to Highlands and brings back with him six robust-minded individuals from that institution.

Last Friday the Glendale Daily Press printed a news account of the primary election of directors and in that story it stated the qualifications that must necessarily be embodied in the ideal director. These were printed on the primary ballot and were as follows:

Open-minded, clear record, tolerant,
 yet forceful, tactful, non-partisan,
 must be a leader in his own sphere, must be a man of heart, willing to work, not use chamber for personal ends, absolute faith in Glendale and the chamber of commerce.

In commenting on this list, Mr.
 Mitchell says that "the men they are looking for are either dead or in the bughouse."

ONE OF FAMILY LEFT FOLLOWING TRAGEDY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Out of a family of six which went motoring yesterday, Donald Sales, aged 10, was the only one alive today. The automobile, containing Wilbur Sales and wife, Mrs. Amanda Sales, the mother of Wilbur Sales, Reuben H. Bradley, aged 12, and Donald Sales, aged 10,
 was struck by a Southern Pacific
 train at Los Medanos, near Pittsburg, Cal. All were killed except Donald.
 Both of his legs were broken.

Ancestors Monkeys? Darwin is Insulting Says Correspondent

Protesting that his ancestors were not monkeys, a correspondent
 heatedly objects to the D. R. winian theory and Henry James in his comments tonight, on the editorial page, has something to say about this and about an ex-governor who died in the poor-houses.

James W. Foley in his column says that experience teaches and that points of view are gained from contact and he says that no man quite knows or sees the point of view of another until he is or has been similarly circumstanced. Rather excellent philosophy and the manner in which Mr. Foley sets it before you is worthy of your attention.

Editorials on "The Next War," "Socialism's Latest Failure," and other subjects, will be found illuminating. There are other splendid features on the editorial page and you should make it a habit to read this page regularly.

PALMER BURNED IN TURNING OFF GAS

Truck Engine Back Fire Results in Blaze That Threatened Truck

W. E. Palmer risked his life Sunday and was painfully burned when he crawled under a truck that was on fire and turned off the flow of gasoline with a pair of pliers. The wood casing of the gasoline tank was blazing when he crawled under the truck at Eulalia and San Fernando road. According to Mr. Palmer the truck, which he was driving, developed engine trouble Saturday night and was left at the side of the road. Sunday morning Palmer attempted to start the engine and as he cranked it the motor burned and shot flames into the carburetor setting fire to the motor. The blaze lasted five minutes before it was possible to turn off the flow of gasoline. Two chemical fire extinguishers were used and three men worked frantically throwing dirt
 on the engine in an attempt to extinguish the flames.

The tank, holding 25 gallons of gasoline, was encased in wood and this wood was blazing when Palmer crawled under the truck. Both sleeves were burned from his coat and one hand was severely burned by blazing gasoline.

MILTON ARMSTRONG PASSED ON OCT. 28TH

Mrs. C. L. Marleene, who has had more than her share of sorrow in the past few weeks, has just returned from Barstow, where she was called by the illness of her father, Milton Armstrong, former resident of Glendale, who died October 28 of typhoid fever. Two weeks before, apparently in perfect health, he came to Los Angeles to attend the funeral of his son-in-law Mr. Welcome.

Mr. Armstrong was buried at Barstow with Masonic honors, having been a member of the order for a great many years. Mrs. Marleene remained after the funeral to comfort her mother who will continue to live in Barstow until spring. Her daughters Hope Armstrong and Dorothy Armstrong Welcome are with her.

Bonus Bill Is Killed By G. O. P. In Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—After a bitter partisan debate, the senate today rejected by a vote of 29 to 42 a second democratic proposal to tack the soldier bonus to the tax bill.

Republican senators who supported the amendment sponsored by Senators Simmons and Walsh, Massachusetts, were: Capper, Johnson, Kenyon, Ladd, La Follette and Norris. Senator Myers, Montana, was the only democrat opposing the proposal.

The third democratic attempt to tack the soldier bonus on the tax bill was defeated when, by a vote of 25 to 44, the senate voted down an amendment by Senator McKellar, Tennessee, to convert $2,000,000,000 of the foreign debt into bonds for the payment of the bonus.
 Two republicans—LaFollette and Norris—voted for it and two democrats—King and Williams—opposed it.

 would do nothing to coerce Ulster, the premier declined to answer, explaining the conference could not proceed if every fresh rumor was made the subject of parliamentary discussion.

FUND OF $28000 WAS RAISED LAST WEEK FOR NEW CHURCH

Browns and Beards Rivals
 to Last in Intensive Drive
 All Last Week

The week's canvassing campaign for funds to be used in the erection of the new Presbyterian church in Glendale, closed Sunday night at 6 o'clock, with every one of the canvassers feeling well repaid for their efforts. In fact, so well satisfied were they with the week's harvest that fully a dozen men volunteered to see that the remaining amount of $22,000 yet to be pledged, is provided. They believe this can be done, and say they will do it.

The fund raised in the campaign amounted to $28,000. The good-natured rivalry that has been carried on between the two teams under the leadership of Howard Brown and A.
 L. Baird continued to the end. At one time Saturday nights, the Bairds had the best of the Browns. The Browns claimed that they had something up their sleeves and proceeded to show that they would not "wear
 the aprons" by coming in just before 6 o'clock last night with a total for the day of $5050. And now the Bairds will have the pleasure of providing a spread for the Browns.

As both teams believe they were in a good cause, not alone for the church but for the good of Glendale
 as well, they are feeling fine over the results. They learn that they collected more money and pledges during one week's campaign than was done in four weeks one year ago.

MONTHLY FEED OF HI- Y WILL BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 14TH

Timberwolf Pipal Will Make Address of Interest to Students

The monthly "feed" of the Hi-Y will be held Monday evening, November 14, at the Glendale Presbyterian church, and members of the football team of Glendale high will be guests.
 By that time the football season will be over and it will be appropriate to honor the team, as the Hi-Y desires to do, for the clean playing the boys have been doing this year.
 Joseph Pipal of Occidental will be the speaker. He is sometimes called "Timberwolf Pipal." During the war he was athletic director with American troops in France and after the war was made national athletic director for Czechoslovakia.

He left Occidental to go to the University of Oregon as coach, but is now back with Occidental. His team beat that of the University of California in 1918. Last year he made a tour of the European countries to study their methods of training athletes, especially the small countries, whose representatives had won so many places in the international contests. He went to Finland and made quite a study of its system of training and in his talk to the football team he will have many interesting things to tell of incidents on that tour. He is one of the big men on the coast in the athletic world and is a great privilege for the Hi-Y's to secure him as a speaker.

CHILDREN ENJOYED TAKING PART IN MOTION PICTURE

Just before noon, traffic was blocked on East Wilson avenue opposite the Intermediate school by a picture stunt put on by the T. D. & L. theater, which is photographing all the schools in the city. It was fun for the children, but nerve-racking to the teachers with full programs for the day, and it consumed not less than half an hour. A "still life" picture as far as it was possible to still 500 children, was taken in panorama with the teachers in the background.

After the perspiring operators had registered that picture they took a motion picture which was more to the liking of the youngsters. They had no need of instructions to throw up their hats, yell and exercise all their members at once, and that picture will probably excell the first one.

BANK TELLER DIES RESULT OF BLOW

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 7.—Ernest F.
 Beal, 31, teller in the local Bank of Italy, is dead today as a result, it is alleged, of a blow struck by A. G.
 Pape, a painter, after an argument
 as to the rules of the road. Pape's car passed Beal's, some words were passed and in front of Pape's house, Pape said he struck Beal with an iron bar when he feared Beal and his friends would attack him. The fight occurred last Sunday night.
 Beal died of blood poisoning, due to skull fracture, early today.

Bride of Camera Artist His "Most Beautiful"

NEW YORK — Lajaren, A. Miller,

who has been called the "Whisperer
 of the Camera," because of the remarkable effects he has been able to get in photographic portraiture, was married to Miss Sara Anita Plummer, characterized by her husband as "the most beautiful woman I have ever made a picture of." Miss Plummer, who is 24, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings Plummer, of Wheeling, W. Va. For the last three years she has been secretary to Chas.
 Dana Gibson, the artist, who, by the way, warmly seconded Mr. Miller's estimate of his wife's pulchritude. It was in Mr. Gibson's studio that Mr.
 Miller first met Miss Plummer, and the acquaintanceship soon ripened into love.

FOUND DEMENTED AFTER LONG SEARCH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Mystery
 surrounding the disappearance of H.
 R. Williams, 48, and wealthy, from his home in Minneapolis two weeks ago was solved today when the man was recognized on the streets of Los Angeles by a former neighbor and found to be a victim of aphasia.
 Charles Waldron, formerly of Minneapolis, identified the man, who was taken to the psychopathic ward at the county hospital. Telegrams were sent to his wife, Mrs. Isabel Williams, asking her to come to Los Angeles immediately.

Williams was manager of the Minneapolis branch of the Fort Wayne Manufacturing company, one of the largest manufacturers of farm implements and hardware in the country.
 His mind an absolute blank, Williams left his office in Minneapolis, boarded a train for Chicago and transferred for a limited to California, according to the story pieced together today by detectives and scientists investigating the strange case.

MRS. SOUTHARD WAS CALM AT SENTENCE

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 7.—Mrs.
 Lyda M. Southard, found guilty of murdering her fourth husband, Edward P. Meyer, was today sentenced to from 10 years to life imprisonment
 in the state penitentiary at Boise.
 Idaho.

As the words of sentence fell from the lips of Judge W. A. Babcock, the convicted woman showed less emotion than did the two or three hundred women who were present. No notice of appeal to the supreme court was filed with Judge Babcock.

Counsel for Mrs. Southard stated that they would later file a motion for a new trial. No request for bail for the woman will be made for some time, at least, it was learned. Sheriff E. R. Sherman stated today that he expected to leave for Boise Wednesday with the prisoner where she will commence serving her sentence.

REPORT DENIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The state department today denied that the Peking government of China has been threatened with withdrawal of American recognition if she again defaulted on the payment of her loan of $5,500,000 from a Chicago bank. Reports of the alleged American threat came from Peking.

SENSATION TO COME IN CASE OF ARBUCKLE

District Attorney Declares Lawyers Try to Talk to State Witness

EMPLOYEE BIG HOTEL

Kate Brennan Will Have Something of Interest to Grand Jury She Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Trial of Roscoe Arbuckle on a charge of manslaughter was continued until Monday, November 14. Charges that a State witness against Arbuckle had been approached by the defense were made by District Attorney Brady.

Kate Brennan, chambermaid, the witness in question, will be called before the grand jury Monday as a result, Brady said. Miss Brennan, it is said, is an important State witness.
 She was employed at the St. Francis Hotel where Arbuckle's Labor Day party, after which Virginia Rappe died, took place.

Gavin McNab, chief counsel for Arbuckle, admitted he had talked to Miss Brennan.

"I feel witnesses belong as much to one side as to the other," Mc-Nab said. "All we want here is truth."

"I object to defense lawyers talking to prosecution witnesses unless before a judge or in my presence," answered the district attorney.

Brady said Miss Brennan had told him the defense attorneys "were so gentlemanly." He said she refused to go into the details with him, but promised to make "an interesting statement" before the grand jury.

MAN ARRESTED FOR SOLICITING HERE

CREDIT ASS'N HEAD TO BE HERE DEC. 1

Frank H. Pilling Has Been Engaged to Operate New Organization Here

Through the efforts of the executive committee composed of C. E. Neale, president; H. S. Webb, vice-president; H. M. Butts, W. L. Moore, Owen Emery, William H. Hooper and Archie Parker, Frank H. Pilling has been engaged as secretary of the Glendale Credit Association. Mr. Pilling will have charge beginning December 1.

The committee feels that the association is fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Pilling as he is one of the most widely experienced men in the management of credit associations, on the Pacific coast. He comes to Glendale from Everett, Wash., where he has been manager and secretary of the credit association for 12 years and has won a reputation for efficiency. He has had about 20 years experience in the management of associations and comes here with recommendations from all parts of the country.

Every member of the credit association has been requested to report to the members of the executive committee all names of merchants or professional men who are interested in the association and are prospective members.

'BACK TO CHRIST' IS THEME OF SERMON

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning Rev. W. E. Edmonds gave the third of a series of sermons on the general theme "Back to God," which were suggested by the recent exceedingly weighty article of that title by William Jennings Bryan.

The day's text was from Matt. 27: 22: "What shall I do with Jesus?" A resume follows:

"These words pre-suppose you have got to do something. The world today has the question on its hands, and must answer. When you have answered this question you have answered every other, for it is the solution of all. Jesus Christ has brought into the world so much light and joy, and yet at the same time he is the center of much obloquy and question. There are so many people who have obliterated, repudiated him. It is time we put him in all our affairs, where he belongs, for all the good we have we owe to him. We should be willing to open the door of our heart and let him in. It is no surprise if blatant infidels should malign him. But that those in churches and pulpits should do so—"We have two lines of thought. First, the foundations on which the teachings about Christ rest. Foremost is the narrative of his life in the Gospels. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John were written under control of the Holy Spirit, and they all dovetail together, as they also do with the literature of the same time. It remains for this late day to hurl question and doubt aside. It is plain that the Gospels did not copy each other. The further history in Acts now disagrees with, but corroborates them. The writings of Paul are beyond the attacks of the higher critics. And then the epistles of James and Peter are to be reckoned with. The Holy Spirit is editor of the whole, and the whole is complete. We can take as foundational the record of the teachings of Jesus Christ, and as absolutely sure. Don't let anyone back you up in a corner of weak doubt on this.

"Back to Christ means, again, back to the Son of Man, the man who lived in all points as we, knowing everything of experience and suffering. A real man, his hands pierced with real nails, and with real scars that were caused by his sins. He sits on the throne with those scars. Back to Christ means to the eternal Christ."

DRY ADHERENTS IN PETITION TO CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Organizations interested in enforcement of prohibition sent a petition to President Harding asking that he "demand executive officers and recommend legislative officers to speed up and intensify agency enforcement." Declaring a tour of the northern States had not shown a reaction "among the more than three-fourths of the American people," who had approved prohibition, the petition continued:

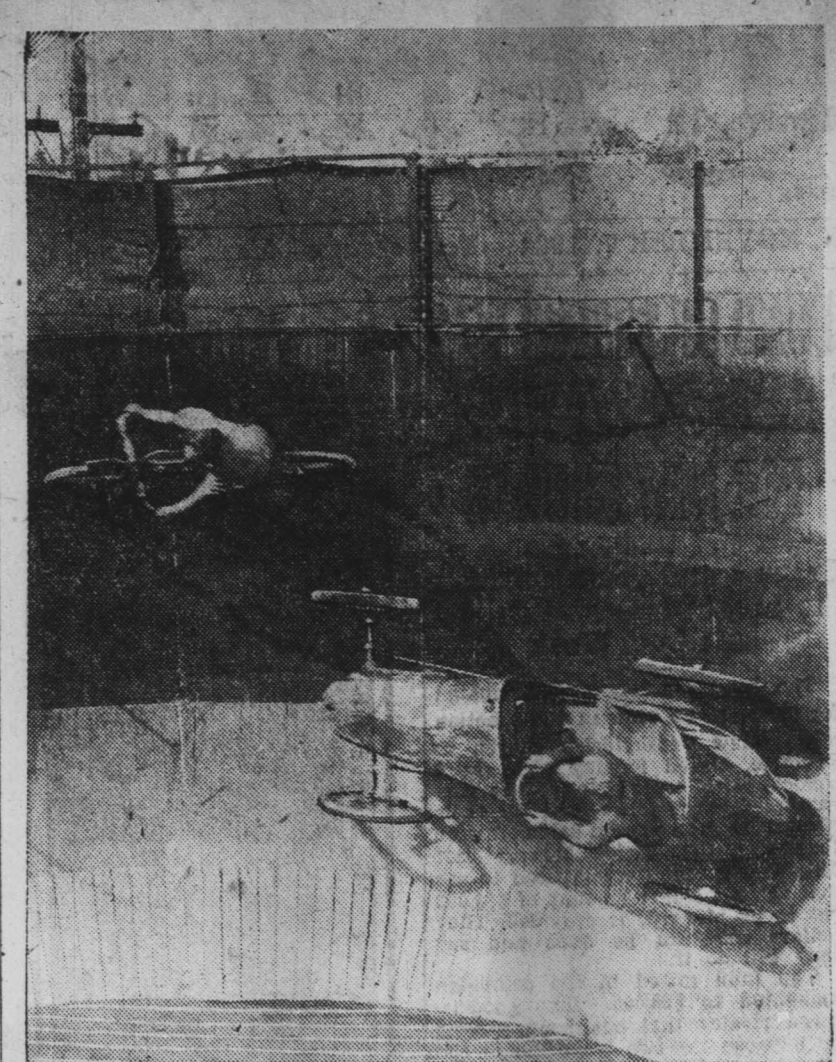

"We respectfully suggest that the party in power, having made prohibition enforcement a matter largely of party patronage, will naturally be held responsible for any failure on the executive side of enforcement, and also for the tragic delay of pending enforcement legislation.

"We note with gratification your indignation that prominent members of Republican committees have extorted large sums as pay for their influence in getting permits for wholesale supplies for bootleggers.

"We believe a law with the Constitution must stop would quickly enthrone law and order in the whole field of prohibition enforcement."

England has more than 800,000 short-time workers.

ONE OF THE BIG THRILLS TO BE SEEN AT GREATER SHEESLEY SHOWS THIS WEEK

Among the many entertainments secured by the American Legion for the Armistice celebration this week is the sensational act of Miss Olive Hager in feats of skill and daring on a motorcycle. In presenting this act said to be more thrilling than looping the loop, Miss Hager travels an immense circular racing track which, instead of being banked, is set at an angle of 90 degrees and is approximately 16 laps to the mile. To experience the thrill of this act one must actually see Miss Hager start her motorcycle from the ground, gradually rising at right angles with the ground, some 20 feet in the air, and below her races a high-powered auto driven by her racing partner, Capt. Haines. Unless one sees the actual performance it is hard to credit its possibility. Removing her hands from the bars and spirals gracefully to the floor of the pit and smiles at the spectators as though taking her life in her hands is one round of pleasure.

MISS OLIVE HAGER

'CUCKOO STORY' OUR U. P. OPERATOR SAYS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Arthur Burch is crazy, according to his attorney. So the district attorney's office sent Dr. Louis Webber, eminent alienist to the county jail to question the little chap who faces a murder charge. Today, for the first time, Dr. Webber's report leaked out from an unofficial source.

"The eminent alienist, serious, inclined to stoutness, seated himself deliberately on one chair, while the subject of his experiment perched like a saucy sparrow on the edge of another. There is a test by which alienists determine mental ability by mentioning a word and noting what it suggests to the subject. Pursuant of this method the alienist began:

Dr. Webber: Burch!

Burch: Nice chap.

Dr. Webber: Money!

Burch: You have it.

Dr. Webber: Jail!

Burch: Humming "Down by the Old Mill Stream" where I first met you.

Dr. Webber: Eat!

Burch: (Jumping up) Good!

Dr. Webber: (Desperately) Crazy!

Burch: (Confidently) Woolwine! This ended the conference.

HUNDRED CARS FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Chamber to Have Cars in Line All Decorated for Big Occasion

An invitation has been extended to the members of the Glendale chamber of commerce by the committee in charge of the Armistice Day celebration to furnish 100 automobiles for the big parade to be held here.

"I have assured this committee," said Assistant Secretary Sanders, of the chamber of commerce, "that I will have at least 100 machines to represent the C. of C. in that parade. This is absolutely a minimum number. We want 500 machines, the more the better. We are going to make this parade the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Glendale, barring none, and the chamber of commerce is going to do its part. Our machines are to gather on Central avenue north of Broadway at 10 o'clock and will be ready for the start of the parade at 11 o'clock. "One request that is being made by the parade committee is that bunting will be used in decorating the machines. It is desired that no flags be used except in places where they will be free to float in the breeze. The chamber of commerce is having banners printed bearing the words: "Glendale Chamber of Commerce," which may be pasted on the inside of the windshield, and these will be distributed free."

BIGGEST INCOMES SHORT SENTENCES

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The total national income of the United States in 1918 was $61,000,000,000, compared with $34,000,000,000 in 1913.

In the same period, individual incomes increased from $354 in 1913 to $586 in 1918.

Because of the lessened value of the dollar, however, the relative purchasing value of the individual income, with 1913 as a basis, was only $372 in 1918, compared with $400 in 1913.

Only 1 per cent of those with incomes in 1918 had incomes of $8,000 a year or more, and this 1 per cent had 14 per cent of the national income.

Eighty per cent of the incomes of 1918 were below $1,750, constituting about 53 per cent of the total income.

Farmers increased their income from 12.6 per cent of the nation's total in 1913 to 17 per cent in 1918. The report estimated that 5,200,000 persons had incomes over $2,000 in 1918 and that their total income was more than $23,000,000,000. Income tax returns, however, showed only 2,908,000 persons reported incomes of $2,000 or over, and their reported total income was less than $14,000,000,000. The total national income in the United States in 1914 was $23,500,000,000, compared with $10,900,000,000 in Great Britain.

The bureau was organized after the war by a group for the purpose of collecting scientific statistical information as the basis for intelligent solution of national problems.

LARGEST WIRELESS STATION OPENED

PORT JEFFERSON, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Pressing a key in the White House, President Harding Saturday started machinery which put into operation the largest and most powerful wireless station in the world. The new station is the radio central located near here, 70 miles from New York. It has practically a worldwide range. Preliminary tests have been heard in Europe as well as Australia, South America and Japan. The plant was constructed under direction of the radio corporation of America.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by filtering the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acid in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

BY W. F. AXTMAN
Financial Editor, The Los Angeles Examiner

W. F. Axtman

The recent announcement of the absorption by the First Securities Company, a subsidiary of the First National and Los Angeles Trust and Savings Banks, of the investment business of the Baer-Brown-Parsons Company, directs attention to the rapidly growing tendency of banking institutions to engage in the bond and high grade security business. This is true not only of Los Angeles but of every other large city in the United States. In the case of the two banks mentioned bond departments already were in operation, and the absorption of the investment house is merely significant of a policy of enlargement of the scope of operations in this line.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the completion of this deal came the news from San Francisco of the establishment by the American National Bank of that city of a securities department. In giving notice of this change the American National expresses in brief form the underlying motive that has actuated practically all banks that have engaged in this line of business. It is explained that the action taken is "for the purpose of assisting our customers in the selection of high class investment securities and with a view to supplying them with such credit, statistical and market information as they may desire from time to time."

In other words, the move is in line of service to individual depositors and clients. A bank dealing in finance and the handling of bonds and other securities unquestionably is a financial function. Moreover, a bank is peculiarly equipped for the rendering of services of this kind. No institution is in closer touch with general conditions at all times or in a better position to determine values or pass judgment upon the credits either of individuals or corporations. The rapid growth of the bond departments of many of the banks attests strongly to the favor with which this important branch of their service is regarded by their patrons and friends.

The establishment of securities departments by banking institutions on a large scale is a development of recent years. It is true that for many years bankers all over the country have acted as advisers to some of their clients in the matter of the purchase or sale of securities, but for a long time the actual transactions were made through brokers or investment houses. The fact, however, that depositors in banks relied to a large extent upon the judgment of their bankers in matters of this kind naturally made for a gradual development of this sort of service, which eventually led to the organization of such departments in charge of experts in investment lines.

The confidence which clients of banks place in the judgment of the officials of the institutions with which they do business is easily understood. A bank is subject to governmental regulation, either national or state, and its fixed responsibility to its depositors necessarily makes for the exercise of a high degree of conservatism. It is inevitable that the feeling of trust which this has engendered should be extended to every department of banking activity and explains in a large measure the success which has attended the operation of the securities departments that have been established.

The philosophy of the situation seems to be well summed up in the slogan which a large banking institution of San Francisco used with excellent effect a few years ago in connection with its safe deposit business. This was "Keep your valuables where we keep ours." The intimation was plain. The storing of its own valuables in certain safes was the banks' best evidence of faith in those safes and a guarantee to its customers that they were secure.

Much the same thing applies to the bond department of a bank. The position taken by many of the depositors is that a bank cannot afford to invest its own money in anything but approved securities. It is assumed with good reason that when a bank deems it wise to place its money in a security issue it is only after a rigid expert investigation has been made of all the underlying conditions, with safety of principal the first consideration. As a rule this faith has proved to be well founded. Instances are exceedingly rare where a bank has made a serious mistake in its selections. It is quite true that market values occasionally decline below the price paid by a buyer for his bond, but that is a matter that neither a bank nor a private investment house can offer any guarantee against. The chief factors in any investment transaction are safety of principal and income, and the number of cases where important errors of judgment in this respect can be charged up to the large banking institutions conducting bond departments are so small as to be almost negligible.

The establishment of securities departments also gives the banks a wider opportunity for financing large enterprises. Their position in this respect is immensely improved by the fact that they have a wide market at hand for such securities as are issued in connection with such transactions. They are also important buyers of national state and municipal securities, the dealings of the Los Angeles banks in securities of this nature in the last year or two amounting to many millions of dollars. As a matter of fact the banks of this city have become a decidedly important factor in the security business and the scope of their operations is constantly being extended, a development that testifies in the most eloquent manner to the approval of their course by many thousands of investors.

GRAND VIEW WILL BE MOST BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL PARK

Promoters Spare No Expense to Make Tract One of Scenic Splendor

Improvements are under way at the Grand View Memorial Park which, when completed, will make the cemetery one of the most attractive in Southern California. Lying on a 3 per cent grade, it has all the natural advantages of high elevation and unsurpassed view. These along with the $500,000 worth of improvements being made and are to be put in will serve to make this memorial park one of unusual attractiveness.

At the present time this park consists of 30 acres of the finest location land in this valley. Originally the size of this park was 13 acres, this being when this cemetery association was first organized. This organization was first effected in 1890, at which time among the stockholders were W. C. B. Richardson, who was formerly the owner of a great deal of land in this valley; N. C. Burch, B. W. Richardson, W. G. Watson, A. C. Burdick, A. C. Hogaboom, Ed Long, C. Chandler, S. E. Chase, Philip Bullis, Ed Ayers, Ed Hollenbeck, John Wolfe and J. W. C. Buckman. At that time the cemetery association was known as the Palm Valley Cemetery Association. The name of the organization was changed in 1891 to the Grand View Cemetery Association.

The organization was incorporated in 1919 under the name of Grand View Memorial Park. Upon incorporation a system of improvements was started, which will probably continue well into 1920. Already since incorporation 10 acres or 430,000 square feet of lawn has been put in and is being maintained in excellent condition. A new archway, having an expanse of 28 feet, has been constructed at the Sixth street entrance. This is made entirely of concrete, is electrically lighted and cost about $1500.

Another valuable addition to this park is the chapel, which will be completed within a short time. This structure also is made of concrete and has a seating capacity of 100, wicker chairs being used. There is a private family room with seats for 12 and 13 vaults in marble. The cost of this building will be about $14,000. An office building has been constructed at the Sixth street entrance of the park. This, in addition to the office, contains a residence of five rooms for the superintendent of the park. The cost of this building was $6,000. A half mile of new drives have just been completed within this park. The big improvement for the future is the 2000 crypt mosaic which will cost about $350,000. Work on this structure, which will be located at the northern boundary of the park, will be started within a short time and it is expected that it will take two years to complete. The first unit of this building will be finished some time during the latter part of 1922. This building will be of marble, granite and bronze and will be 565 feet long.

Fourteen acres of this park are now being cleared and the drives will be put through at once. Stately Italian cypress trees 150 feet high and a cypress hedge, all of which were planted twenty-five years ago, compose an important part to this park. No other memorial park in Southern California has trees and greenery of this age.

A sales campaign, the first ever put on by this cemetery, is now being carried out. This campaign is being carried out from the park office with Bert Ward of 451 Myrtle street, Glendale, as sales manager. The sections in this park are arranged in a circle, so that anything from 3-grave to 14-grave family plots may be secured. No other memorial park in the state offers this service, unless it is divided in a circle. The prices of the plots in this cemetery will be advanced January 1st.

Len C. Davis, president of the Grand View Memorial Park association, has lived in Glendale for a year and a half. He is personally in charge of all the work that organization is doing and will do the full. He declares that when the contemplated improvements are completed the Grand View Memorial Park will be one of the most attractive features of its kind in Southern California.

NEW SUB-DIVISION ON MARKET SOON

Fitz Investment Co. to Put 31 Acre Tract on Sale in Near Future

R. F. Fitz of the Fitz Investment Company, announces the sale of a 31-acre tract at the corner of Verdugo road and Colorado street to Thorpe Brothers of Minneapolis, who have handled subdivisions all over the United States. They are subdividing a big tract in Chicago now and will send a representative to handle the property named and place it upon the market.

The tract includes 13 acres owned by the Fitz Investment Company and in addition the ranch of R. W. Meeker, who is retaining a home site with a frontage of 200 feet on Colorado and a depth of 250 feet.

This property, which has already been platted by the Fitz company, was one of the sites offered for Glendale union high school and withdrawn after the advisory committee recommended the Broadway-Verdugo site. Mr. Fitz reports that there is no slowing down in the demand for real estate but instead an increase. Two other buyers were ready to purchase the tract mentioned if Thorpe Brothers failed to take it, and he has been commissioned to find for them other Glendale tracts capable of subdivision. He expects to continue realty operations in this city and is on the lookout for another tract for his company.

Building trade workmen in this country are employed but 190 days a year.

PROTECTION YOURS IF YOU WANT SOME THING OF MERIT

Press Will Give Readers $1000 Accident Policy for the Asking

Every day the papers are full of automobile accidents in which persons are killed. Every Sunday the toll is great. The number of accidents has increased so alarmingly in the past few months that the authorities are baffled to find methods of preventing them.

You cannot tell whether you will be the next victim. If you are the next victim, what about your wife's she protected by accident insurance?

You owe it to her to have this protection. The Glendale Daily Press in conjunction with the Los Angeles Express, will give her this protection absolutely without cost.

If you are a subscriber to the Press and Express a $1000 accident insurance policy is yours for the asking. It is merely stipulated that you pay or the paper regularly every month for the year that the policy is in force.

For the regular price of the two papers, 65 cents per month, you receive not only the two papers delivered to your home every evening, but a fully paid up accident insurance policy for $1000.

If you are a fare-paying passenger on an electric car or train, motor bus or other public conveyance, and are killed, your beneficiary will receive $1000. If you are riding in an automobile and are killed, your beneficiary will receive $1000. Every day men and women are killed while on railroad trains or traveling in automobiles. You may be the next. Are you protected against such an accident? The Glendale Daily Press is not offering this as a premium. It is actually giving you this protection because you are a subscriber to this paper.

It is the greatest humanitarian offer ever made by a newspaper, and you have only to sign the registration blank to receive the fully paid up policy insuring you against accidents, according to the provisions of the policy for $1000.

BUILDING MISSION HOUSE ON PROPERTY

TUJUNGA, Nov. 7.—Rev. John T. Wornom is building a mission house on his property on Sunset boulevard and intends to hold services there every Sunday. This mission is the first place of worship to be established in Tujunga.

Leonard Howard, a schoolboy of Tujunga, broke his right leg above the ankle Friday. He was attended by Dr. Virginia Smith, who administered first aid and then took the boy to the county hospital in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Louise Miller and her daughter, Mrs. Grace Maxwell, have left for Taft, Calif., where they will spend the winter.

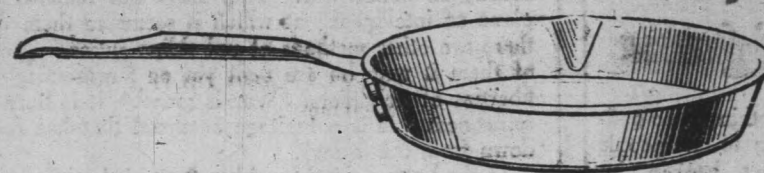

Miss Nellie Warner of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, has been confined to her home at 320 North Orange street for the past week, on account of illness.

Reduction of five cents an hour in the wages of conductors and motormen has been announced by the International Railway company of Buffalo.

Truths in Epigram

Nothing is so galling to a people
not broken in
from the birth, as a paternal govern-

other words, a meddling government, a govern-

and wear. — Lord Macaulay (1800-1859).

AN ABSENCE OF MILDNESS

In a sectarian paper is noted the expression of belief that the only good bootlegger is a dead one. This statement was in connection with comment on the arrest of several of the ilk, whom the paper declared should have been lodged five feet underground instead of in jail.

Some question may arise as to whether this is the best spirit in which to foster observance of the prohibition amendment. Quite certainly it may be affirmed that many who earnestly desire suppression of the bootlegger would rather permit him to escape with "moonshine" on his hands than to stop him through getting blood on their own.

Irritation at the persistence of these lawbreakers is easily understood. To slay the active agents, however, would be less than fair if their customers, many of whom are to all seeming, respectable citizens, were permitted to survive. Survive with cellars stocked, at that.

Perhaps the editor did not realize what a decimation would be brought about were his ideas made into a working code. The police force of Chicago, for example, would be reduced by half, fully 50 per cent forthwith being sent to the morgue. No, the plan is not practicable at all. Admitting that the inspiration may be lofty, the method could not be adopted.

Because prohibition is imperfectly enforced hardly is a reason for getting discouraged now. Little is likely to be accomplished by the degree of impatience that calls for such drastic course as sweeping capital punishment. The law is very new yet. It has disturbed the habits of millions who never before came into direct conflict with the statutes. That from the first it could be wholly effective, a complete and absolute reform, really was far too much to expect.

GERMANY DIM OF VISION

Count Bernstorff has risen to prominence in Germany. Recently he called upon that country to keep an eye on Harding's disarmament conference. In the prospective gathering he thought he could discern an Anglo-American alliance that would cause the world to be dominated by the English speaking races "for the next thirty years." Why "thirty years" instead of forty he did not definitely explain. Perhaps that is the period he deemed necessary to bring forth a German and Russian compact at which he hints.

Germany, if Bernstorff reveals its impressions correctly, must be dim of vision, spiritually. He himself seems utterly to ignore the possibility that great powers, torn by war, and weary of it, might unite in a peace having no ulterior purpose. There is no reason why the governments represented at the conference should be tied to the ancient creed of hatred.

Whatever may be respective desires as to the industrial and financial advancement of each, millions of soldier graves give token of the right and duty to pledge against useless and unrighteous war.

Germany has not yet, it appears, arrived at the stage at which she may contemplate the possibility of national existence save as a career shall be carved out with the sword. This spirit has been the curse and sorrow of the world.

When Germany shall have reached the moral plane of the peoples she now regards as intending to crush her, she too, will be welcome to join. This will be long. Not yet has there been sign of penitence, and until the day of penitence, Germany will be alien to the best in civilization. Civilization will feel fearful that the first opportunity to bring about war would be seized eagerly, as before it was seized by the Kaiser.

For the fact that an agreement among many nations is likely, and that Germany will be excluded, the policy of the Germans themselves is to blame. Combination with Russia is a dream. Were it to come about, and the force thus created be bent upon attending to its own affairs, to promotion of creative enterprises, to avoiding occasion for war, to internal improvements, material production, and establishment of amicable relations with the rest of the world, the realization of the dream would be a blessing.

Bernstorff, apparently, does not desire it to come in a form that could make it a blessing. It is power for which he yearns; power to menace, to crush, and to tear down the edifice of peace others strive to establish.

"THE NEXT WAR"

Will Irwin prepared for the League of Women Voters a digest of his recent book, "The Next War." It is an admirable epitome of one of the most useful books ever published.

The digest has been sent to this office by ex-Congressman Randall with a request that it be printed with comment. It is a pleasure to comply as to the main request, but the comment is rendered unnecessary by the digest itself. There, in impressive, undeniable showing of fact, are to be discerned truths that need nothing said about them. They leave nothing to be said. They cover the case completely. The argument against war is absolute, final and overwhelming. War is pictured as the thing of horror it always has been. "The Next War" is portrayed as a cataclysm, so vast, so hideous, so destructive, that it is conceived as the end of the world that civilization has builded.

When the book was newer it was given editorial review in the Evening Post. It was endorsed, and if not praised, only because it was regarded as beyond praise.

The greater nations of the earth, deep in their hearts, all abhor war. They have not reached the plane of intelligence at which it seems to them that there are other methods of upholding justice. Some of them it may be are bent yet on suppressing the liberties of neighbors. War is greed. It is born of selfishness. It is a heritage accursed that has come down from tribal days.

In the human mind has been formed the conviction that war is wrong. But there has not entered along with this conviction a practical knowledge of how war may be exterminated. There are theories, that being based on the Golden Rule, may in time govern the conduct of peoples. They have not been put into practice. Those who desire to put them in practice lack the faith to place themselves defenseless before others to whom, perhaps, the yearning for peace is yet not so strong as the yearning for power.

"The Next War" deserves to be placed in the hands of everybody capable of reading. Schools should become familiar with it. It is a sermon, and a text for sermons.

SOCIALISM'S LATEST FAILURE

North Dakota's non-partisans, going down to defeat carried with them the hopes of socialists. The non-partisans had a long time in which to experiment. They were found to be incompetent, their methods ineffectual, their theories wrong. There came the test of election. They could not survive it. Power has been taken from their hands not because they wantonly abused it, but because they were not capable of making proper use of it.

At the outbreak of the late war there were many socialists. In numerous places where their strength had centered, they were able to control elections, and even occasionally to elevate one of their number to office. The party could not measure up to the standards of patriotic citizenship. Loyal Americans, honoring the flag, simply were forced by their self-respect to leave the organization almost in a body. Those who remained in the fold in many instances had to be restrained of their liberty, for they had become open enemies of the government. Such leaders as Ghent and Spargo dropped out. Such leaders as Berger and Hillquit remained. Ahead of a party so stripped of its wholesome element, there could be no honorable goal.

It is a mere incident of the situation that the president of the non-partisan league is in jail for conspiracy to encourage disloyalty. How could an organization so directed expect to run any course save that leading to ruin?

Thinking to evade arrest for having a bottle of whisky, a man is said to have smashed the bottle in the highway. Thereupon he was arrested for breaking glass that might endanger the passing automobile. Sometimes what seems to be an avenue of escape doesn't lead anywhere.

First Commandment with Promise

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The Fifth Commandment of the Decalogue is called the First Commandment with Promise. It is the injunction to "Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long in the land."

This idea may seem a little antiquated in these times. But it is based upon the unchanging principles of human nature; and a neglect of it cannot fail to bring the disaster which always comes to an infraction of natural law.

In a great city the other day a peculiar case was brought before a magistrate.

A silly mother, of a type all too frequent, sustained her two half-grown daughters, says the daily news item, in resisting their father's authority when he reproved their manners and forbade them to go out alone at night, whither they wisted, and to remain out until all hours. "The father complained to the magistrate. The mother, rudely brought to reason by experience, seconded him, confirming all that he said. The magistrate confessed, however, his inability under the law to coerce the wayward girls. So there is no alternative for these parents between submitting to the disorderly will of their children and the disastrous expedient of turning them out of the house to pursue their own headstrong and probably vicious course."

This sorry drama will find an echo and a parallel in many a home.

The problem of bringing up children is not one that can be dismissed with an axiom. It is complicated and baffling; for it is, after all, the problem of life itself.

It is all the more complex because the intention of the parents is almost uniformly good. They want their children to be happy, and whatever mistake they make is usually traceable to that cause, and not to any evil intent.

The difficulty usually is that the quick and thoughtless road to this objective is indulgence. The parents do not wish their children to think hard of them and therefore subject them to as little restraint as possible.

Of course there are other parents who exercise too much restraint from an equally right motive, and unfortunately, the results of one error are often as disastrous as those of the opposite.

The tendency, however, of modern times is to overindulgence. This arises from ignorance of the importance of discipline.

There is no foundation for happiness except self-mastery; and children who are trained to obey no masters but their own desires and to obey no will except their own whim are pretty sure to come to grief.

The spectacle of young people who have no regard for the advice of their parents is all too common.

It is perhaps the bitterest experience of fathers that the wisdom and judgment which they have accumulated by long years and many a hard knock is often lightly disregarded by the child.

In other times the parent exercised the right of life and death over the child. We have gone far from this; and many parents have renounced even the right of discipline and abandoned the sacred duty of reasonable correction.

One thing at least young people might learn: that there is nothing quite so vulgar in the eyes of cultured people as disrespect on the part of the young for Father and Mother.

THE LISTENING POST

There is an old saying that the editor of this Listening Post heard when a boy.
And it is worth repeating now.
For a great many of the old things are worth remembering and repeating.

People had when you were a boy, or a girl, many homely sayings.
But full of wisdom.
Because people perhaps had more time to think.
And as civilization grows more complex there is less and less time for thinking.

It used to be we "learned the piano," as the saying was.
Now we put a roll with a piece of paper and a lot of holes in it into a machine, and it plays the piano for us.

No effort at all.
Not even to pump. Because they do that now with a motor.
Piano playing made easier.
Everybody a virtuoso.

Then you put a round disc on a flat surface and release a spring and it runs around with music.
Singing, orchestra, piano, anything at all composed in sound.
So you don't have to go out to hear the band.
You bring the band in on a plate.
And set it going whenever you please.

All you need is a disc and a needle and a machine and you can have all the music you want.
So many things that formerly came hard come easily.
Not so much effort.

But there arises the question as to how much effort we can dispense with and still be strong.
Whether we appreciate as much the things that come easily.
And whether ease makes us grow.

But to get back to the old saying:
It was this:
How much nicer it is to be inside and think how much nicer it is to be inside than it is to be out in the cold than it is to be out in the cold and think how much nicer it is to be inside than it is to be out in the cold.

It sounds confused and involved.
But it is not.
As you will see if you read it again slowly.
And the gist of it is that everything depends on your circumstances and point of view.
Even to your opinion of life and the world.

A man was sitting on a winter night
By a grate fire.
With a full stomach,
A book.
A pipe.
Health and comfort.

A very wonderful combination of circumstances, to be sure.
And he sighed with content.
And said: "What a wonderful world it is!"
And it was.
His world, that is to say.

And another man stood outside in the cold and snow.
Shivering and hungry and ill clothed.
And he drew his worn coat about him to shut out the wind.
His teeth chattered and his lips were blue.

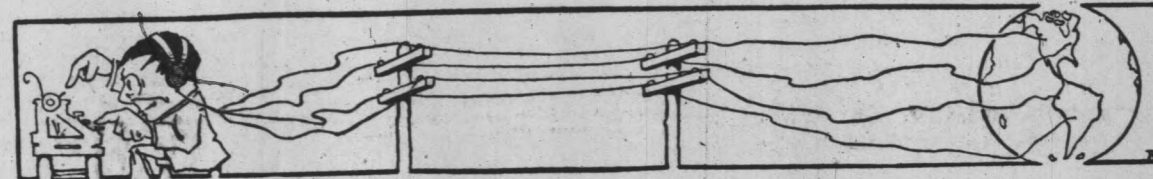

He felt in his pocket for a coin, to find it empty.
And with nothing to eat and no place comfortable to sleep he said:
"What a miserable world!"
Naturally enough.

It was the same world, of course.
But the circumstances and the points of view of the two men were different.
Each was of a different world.
And each held a different opinion.

And in the queer turn of events, the positions of the men were one day reversed.
And their opinions reversed as completely.
And each learned something from the change of circumstances.

So it is that experience teaches.
That points of view are gained from contact and experience more than from teaching.
And that no man quite knows or sees the point of view of another until he is or has been similarly circumstanced.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Human Seasons—By John Keats (1795-1821)

Four seasons fill the measure of the year;
There are four seasons in the mind of man:
He has his lusty Spring, when fancy clear
Takes in all beauty with an easy span.

He has his Summer, when luxuriously
Spring's honeyed cud of youthful thought he loves
To ruminate, and by such dreaming high

Is nearest unto Heaven: quiet coves

His soul has in its Autumn, when his wings
He furthest close; contented is to look
On mists in idleness—to let fair things
Pass by unheeded as a threshold brook:—

He has his Winter, too, of pale misfeature,
Or else he would forego his mortal nature.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

A PARAN FOR GOLF

[Montreal Star]

Half a century ago the game of golf was practically unknown on the continent. Today millions turn to the golf links every week-end for the relaxation that tired brains crave. There must be something fascinating in a game which can hold its votaries until they are past three-score years and yet can draw neophytes almost as soon as they have tumbled out of the cradle.

There is a democracy about golf that is more apparent in Great Britain than it has been, until now, in Canada. Toronto has made a start with three public golf courses in its neighborhood, but in Montreal golf still remains, to a large extent, the rich man's game. So much money is spent on the housing accommodation for members and their friends and the social activities of the club that a high membership fee becomes necessary.

In Chicago it is estimated that over a million people play golf every Saturday on the public courses, many of which are municipally owned. In Montreal efforts to establish any sort of a public course have so far failed. If golf appeals to children and the young men of seventy, it is due to the inherent attractiveness of the game rather than the social activities with which its playing has been associated in Canada.

Golf facilities for five thousand of Montreal's young people would mean an opportunity for these five thousand to spend twenty thousand hours in the great outdoors, fill their lungs with two hundred thousand draughts of pure air, kill millions of microbes and dispel myriads of worries, anxieties, irritations and bad tempers.

What a chance for some philanthropist!

MR. BRYAN AND FLORIDA

[Washington Post]

With mixed emotions leaders of the democratic party have been speculating as to whether William Jennings Bryan, who has deserted Nebraska and taken up his permanent residence in Florida, is seriously contemplating offering himself as a candidate for the United States from his adopted state. Senator Trammell's term expires on March 4, 1923, so there will be an election for senator next year. When asked as to his attitude toward this situation, Mr. Bryan merely remarks that he has no plans, which may mean much or little. He expects to vote in Florida at the next election, having by that time qualified as an elector.

There is a rather general belief that the voters of Florida would be inclined to look upon Mr. Bryan as a carpetbagger if he aspired to the senatorship after only a year's legal residence in the state, not

Doubtless Roy Gardner feels slighted that nobody has ascribed to him the big mail robbery in New York.

Senators going to Haiti should understand that the voodoo man's catch them if they don't watch out.

Senatorial side trips to points outside the three-mile limit are understood to have their compensations.

An expert declares that most accidents can be avoided. Of course. But consider the trouble it takes to avoid them.

withstanding his eminence in the party councils and the prestige he might add to Florida. The people down there appear to have a notion that a senator ought to win his spurs before taking a seat in the upper branch of congress. Senator Fletcher, for instance, previous to his election to the senate, was a member of the Florida legislature, mayor of Jacksonville, chairman of the board of public instruction of Duval county and chairman of the state democratic executive committee. Senator Trammell, before coming to Washington, was mayor of Lakeland, served in both the house of representatives and the senate of Florida and was attorney general and governor of the state.

This would indicate that the democrats of Florida are committed to the policy of promoting their public officials, demanding that they work their way up from the bottom. If they intend to apply this policy to Mr. Bryan, it might be well for the young orator to look the situation over with a view to running for mayor of Miami for a start and stepping from that into the governor. These two offices attained, the senatorship might properly be considered within his reach. Florida doubtless appreciates the honor of Mr. Bryan's advent to its citizenship, and properly so, but it is not yet clear that she is pleased to the point where she is ready to hand over to him one of her most important public offices.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

A correspondent objects somewhat heatedly to the Darwinian theory of evolution. He denies that his ancestors were monkeys. He has a perfect right to object. If his ancestors were monkeys, the fault is not his. Posterity would now be entitled to a certain credit for having eased out of the simian family and acquired the habit of wearing clothes.

Of course the person who declares against evolution as a fact, might as well declare against the law of gravitation, which would be to deny the tendency of water to run down hill.

This globe is itself an evolution. The animal life upon it represents evolution. In some instances, as that of the horse, the evolutionary stages are of record. In others, with all respect to scientists, the matter is guesswork. Some of them guess that the back track of man is to be followed direct to monkeys, but they have not verified the conjecture.

There are traces of early types of men. These men left no evidence of being highly intelligent. The evidence they left was that they were men, not that they were monkeys.

Humanity has not mastered the secrets of the vast creative process. The intelligence that directs this process is expressed in every living thing. Then it could have caused the development of man from a protoplasmic stult, and did so, is marvelous. Granting that this is what happened, there remains no occasion for linking the human race with the brute, or surmising that relationship exists. Having a common starting point, each developed along its destined line, and the lines did not cross. Of course all this is theory, too, but in devising a theory it is well to have one that appeals to reason, and is not discomforting to the pride.

An ex-governor of Idaho has died in an Oklahoma poorhouse.

While life is marked by ups and downs, and failure may swallow up what appears to be success, seldom is there an incident so emphatically expressing this truth.

The governor of a state has reached a dignified and fairly remunerative station. The fact of his election argues that he has won the respect of his fellows. It is almost an inevitable inference that he is a man of substance. Yet after serving his state, its foremost citizen for the time, invested with authority, holding an immense power, one leaves after his term, and dies a pauper.

Charges are made that some of the great railroads of this country are pledged to support an alien merchant marine, as against the marine of the United States.

Perhaps the accusation is not to be sustained by facts. Whether or not it may be so sustained, an explanation from the railroads involved would be interesting. And it would have to be a good explanation in order to get by.

In the failure of the Hapsburg coup Frank H. Simonds sees a happy augury for the future of Europe. Simonds generally is rated as the foremost war correspondent, and his opinion is received with respect. He has not been a mere chronicler of events, but a close and logical student of international affairs.

It is his opinion that if reaction had any chance whatever, that chance lay in Hungary. It failed so quickly and decisively, as to indicate that the monarchical spirit of central Europe has waned beyond the hope of survival.

There certainly is the element of novelty in the action of a New York woman whereby she won a $10,475 verdict against her husband. The sum represented the cost of maintaining herself and children for 780 weeks.

It seems that during this period the husband and father contributed a total of $250 to the family pot, the wife being sole provider. A husband who couldn't do better than this ought to be stirred to activity. Possibly the effort to pay the judgment will be good for him.

Four arrests have been made of men suspected of robbing the rum cache of Joseph Leiter in Virginia.

As the value of the spoils at bootlegger rate is $300,000, it is not strange that the owner manifests displeasure.

Of course no such robbery could have been perpetrated by mere burglars. Any gang of yeggs having such a fortune in loot, could not have escaped. The police would have arrested them at once, and either arrested them or demanded a share.

In all probability the robbery was the work of conspirators, with plenty of capital, and a place in which to hide the liquor, together with a complete system of distribution.

In The Social Realm

Federation Head Calls on Women To Get in Work

Millions of club women the nation over will be urged the next few days to stir public opinion to its depths in support of the arms limitation conference. A circular with this appeal, asking whether the nation wants "war or peace; sanity or insanity; life or death," has been forwarded to the organizations of the General Federation of Women's Clubs by President Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Minneapolis, who is also a member of the conference advisory committee. This circular asking the clubs to let President Harding and the senators know where they stand has the approval of the White House and the state department.

Mrs. Winter is no Utopian dreamer; she told the United Press in an interview today that she hopes for progress but does not believe armaments can be scrapped completely. In fact, she added, "pacifists are trying hard to queer the whole conference by saying they will demand complete disarmament. I don't believe that can be done now; it can only come when the world reaches the stage where it needs no police."

Mrs. Winter views pessimistically the world's future if this conference fails. "If we lose our moral sense and adopt the idea of utter frightfulness for a new war—touching even non-combatants—then Germany has been victorious by putting across her philosophy—a philosophy of terror which we, at the outset of the war, held intolerable," she declared.

TREAT OF YEAR AT CLUB MEETING

Members of the Tuesday Afternoon club who have studied the club calendar and who have had the privilege of hearing Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith, have been looking forward to the meeting Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Goldsmith will read "The Windy Roads to God." It will be one of the treats of the year.

It will also be "Charter Day" and in celebration a pleasant surprise for members has been provided by the board and program committee. Mrs. Goldsmith has just produced a beautiful pageant at Sierra Madre. This year she is the director of the Ebell's dramatic section.

ITALIAN PROGRAM FOR JUNIOR CLUB

Between fifty and sixty members and friends of the Junior Auxiliary of the Glendale Music Club met at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Parker on North Orange street Saturday night to enjoy the Italian program. It included "Echoes of Naples," a medley of Italian melodies by the Junior Choral club, a piano solo from "Il Trovatore," by Margaret Longley; violin solo, "Concerto No. 3" (Tritani) by Virgil Drenberg with piano accompaniment by Margaret Stuckwisch; a vocal duet, "Home to Our Mountains," from "Il Trovatore," by Donna Wilson and Eleanor Kopp with piano accompaniment by Jean Robinson.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the senior club, Mrs. L. N. Hagood, secretary, and Mrs. Wilson were special guests and were much impressed with the progress made in membership and musical development.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

EVER SO MUCH WORSE THAN A SCOLDING
By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

While Maltie Kitten's Man was entertaining his visitors, Tommy Peete and Louie Thompson, and Tommy's cousin Sandy, inside the cabin, Maltie Kitten was entertaining the folks outside. Redskin, the big bay colt, the little boys rode, was an old friend; he'd been there before. And Sandy's roan mare, his mate, had such nice manners that Maltie was delighted with her, while Tommy's

"I Don't Want to Eat." He Had to Gulp Down a Lump in His Throat in Order to Answer Them

dog, Watch, had been almost like a father to the kitten when the Woodsfolk first brought him to Tommy's barn.

They couldn't understand why Trailer the Hound crept by without the flick of an ear for any one and slunk off, all by himself. But they guessed maybe his feelings were hurt about something so they were too polite to take any notice of him. But presently Sandy came out and took the bridles off the horses so they could eat the tender grass of the Broad Field. And then Maltie's Man set down a dish for the others to feed from.

"Trailer!" mewed Maltie politely. "It's eating-time. Come along! We're waiting."

Trailer never answered. So they trotted off with their noses to the ground until they found him. "What's the matter with you?" barked Watch. "Come and get your dinner like a sensible dog! We won't leave you a thing. We're almost starving."

"I don't want to eat." He had to gulp down a lump in his throat to answer them.

"Gnawed bones and rotten eggs!" exclaimed the old collie with the wavy tail. "You make too much of a little scolding."

"This is worse than a scolding," sniffed the hound. They could see him shining in his eyes when he turned to look at them. "Sa—Sandy is going to shoot me, 'cause he says I'm no more good!" Now that was not what Trailer thought he meant, so it amounted to the same thing where he was concerned.

"Well, he can't shoot you here," Watch comforted the poor fellow. "He didn't bring his gun."

"And he can't borrow my Man's," put in Maltie. "Cause why? My Man hasn't one."

"You're not dead yet," smiled Watch. "Get a meal under your skin and see if your tail doesn't start wagging. Remember the back tunnel to Nibble Rabbit's hole? There's sure to be a back tunnel in this Trouble's hole you're caught in. Or else we'll make one. Come, sit, your feet, and we'll talk while we're eating."

Rub Backache Away

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin. Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years. —Advt.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR MUSIC CLUBS BEING PLANNED

City's Music Lovers Seek 200 More Members in Effort Soon to Start

Preliminary arrangements have been made for the drive which the Glendale Music club is inaugurating for two hundred members to complete its roster. Mrs. E. W. Kinney has accepted the captaincy of the women's team, and W. S. Rattray of the men's team.

Not only is Glendale celebrated for its rapid growth and sensational building record, but its fame in connection with the Glendale Music club is spreading all over the United States and inquiries are coming from all directions. The "Musical Monitor," a leading publication of New York City, has written for details relative to the junior and juvenile auxiliaries, and its career is being watched with interest by all who are trying to stimulate the development of musical taste in this country.

The last number of the official bulletin of the California Federation of Music Clubs, which goes to 5000 subscribers who are officers of clubs, contains a long article on the Glendale Music club which is carried into 5,000 homes where it advertises Glendale.

Because of the educational work the club is doing, its president, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones has been advised by the treasury department that no war tax will be collected on the tickets it issues.

Including its auxiliaries, the club now has a membership of 600. It has already shown courage and initiative by securing Alice Gentle, the great prima donna as soloist for its concert December 2. It wants to be able to bring more such artists to Glendale and can do so if it is sufficiently supported by a "strong membership enrollment."

STARTED CAMPAIGN GET NEW MEMBERS

At a student assembly at Glendale high school this morning, the campaign to secure members for the High School Parent-Teacher Association was inaugurated and the plan was explained by Mrs. E. B. Wyman, president of the association, and by Mrs. Stoff. The school has long wanted to organize a band, but funds to finance it have never been available. Knowing this, the association is bidding for the help of the students by promising that the first four roll rooms that get 100 per cent enrolled, i. e., the parents of the students, will be given $25 each to be presented by them to the school to finance the school band.

A violin duet was contributed by Herbert Bruck and Georgia Thompson.

Rev. Gordon Palmer, pastor of the South Park Baptist church made a fine talk on "Confessing Christ," which was followed by a solo by Miss Grace Pike, county missionary superintendent. A "decision service" for more definite Christian work closed the program.

HOLD SERVICES IN CHURCH BUNGALOW

The Christian church building is still away "up in the air" but Sunday school and church services were held Sunday as usual, though under considerable difficulties. This will continue for possibly two more Sundays and then the old building will rest securely on its new foundation and can be used as formerly. The cornerstone of the new building will be laid November 27 with impressive ceremonies.

At the morning service Rev. Cole preached a very timely sermon on "War or Civilization—Which?" In the evening he delivered the third of the series on the "Place and Plea of the Disciples of Christ," continuing the narrative of and dealing especially with Alexander Campbell, Walter Scott and Barton W. Stone.

Proceeding the evening service the closing session of the school of missions was held. This had lasted six weeks. A wonderfully interesting feature of this was the appearance of Doris and Dorothy, charming young daughters of Dr. A. L. Shelton and wife, in Tibetan costumes. Graphic descriptions of Tibetan manners and customs were given by Miss Doris and native music, posturing and the like shown by both the young ladies. Many questions were asked by members of the large audience present on the habits and customs of this forbidding land, 17,000 feet above sea level, and were answered most intelligently and clearly by Miss Doris. She and her sister were born in Tibet and spent all their lives there except the past year. They are living with their grandparents in Pomona to attend school for the next five years or more. Their parents, who first went to Tibet 19 years ago, recently left the home land for a return to the Orient after a year's furlough, taken that Dr. Shelton might recover from the effects of his long captivity in the custody of Chinese bandits, the narrative of which thrilled the world.

He expected to reach the forbidden land today. His wife, who sailed with him from the home land, branched off and went to Calcutta to look after the printing of Bibles in the Tibetan language.

Dr. Shelton gave an address before the Christian Endeavor state convention in Glendale last June, telling of his captivity and was heard with keen interest by many of our people.

PREPARE FOR PEACE SUBJECT SERMON TO EX-SOLDIERS

Rev. Calderwood Gives Address to Glendale Post Sunday Night

The American Legion attended services Sunday night in the Congregational church and listened to an address on "Prepare for Peace," by the pastor, Rev. C. M. Calderwood, who is a member of the American Legion. Mr. Charles Comfort sang Kipling's "Recessional," the music being arranged by DeKoven, and the choir sang "In Flanders Field," by Robinson. The church was crowded and great interest was shown in the service.

A resume of the address follows: "You went into war to end war. You fought for peace. Our Government wants peace. The millions of the world's people want peace. Then why do we not have peace? It is because certain interests want war or want the things that war will bring them. It is because certain people are greedy, selfish and ambitious, not because they are blood-thirsty. We have made great sacrifices to prepare for war. When we are willing to make some equal sacrifices for peace, we will have peace."

"The old method of obtaining world peace has failed. The world was told that certain methods of procedure would operate for peace. The world took that advice. The world obeyed the commands of the war lords and now the world is starving, suffering, bleeding and bankrupt."

"The world is starting to repeat the mistake of the last century. There is a race in organizing and maintaining armies, in building great navies and in creating other superb engines of destruction."

"We are pleased that our Government sees the mistake and recognizes the danger of this, and so hopes to lead the nations out of threatening wars to a lasting peace. To this end, our President has called a conference of the nations for the purpose of discussing the problems that confront the nations and formulate agreements on a program for the limitation of armaments."

"In the Government's official invitation to the conference we find this statement: 'The rivalries of armaments are not only without economic justification but are a constant menace to the peace of the world.'"

"It is true that the rivalries are without economic justification. The leading nations spent $16,000,000,000 on war purposes this year when millions are crying for bread. This is without economic justification. Ninety three per cent of the expenditures of our own Government was for war. We are not justified either economically or morally in spending $40,000,000 for one battleship when that amount would keep one million starving people alive for a year. In a few years these battleships will be thrown into the junk heap and the money expended on them would have saved eternal lives. This year the United States has spent $1,422,000,000 on armies and navies alone. Herbert Hoover says that this is inconceivable folly when people are starving. We cannot afford this expenditure and much less can other nations afford it."

"It is true, too, that rivalries in armaments are a constant menace to the peace of the world. People used to think that heavy armaments were a protection. Arms and bayonets pointed at each other's throats do not insure peace. They arouse suspicion that leads to war. If all the world is prepared for war there will be war. And when some nations are armed, others are afraid and for protection, arm themselves. If every nation has a super engine of war, well geared up, some one will start them going and then all will start. Men have recommended armed peace. What is that? It is the policy that Europe followed this last century. Billions in money were spent and millions of men were highly trained. This was done to safeguard Europe. The people were called upon to make great sacrifices to do this. Europe prepared for war and she got what she prepared for. Europe made gigantic preparations and she got gigantic war. This last war proved one thing very clearly: That armed peace leads to war. Charles Jefferson says that the war shot to pieces many things; but there are two things that were especially shot to pieces and torn to shreds; these were the adage, 'In time of peace, prepare for war,' and the delusion, 'Armaments are a guarantee of peace.' Our Government has seen the folly of this and has called a conference of the nations to correct the mistake. We say that Germany made a mistake the past 50 years. Then, why should we repeat the mistake?"

"War does not settle difficulties any more. It makes more difficulties. We have more national and international problems now than before the war. We solved one problem and we have a dozen more."

"Our best weapon is not brute force but spiritualism. It was so in the last war and it will be so in time of peace. Force is not the only way to govern men. It is not so in the family circle, in the school nor in the nation. Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord." So long as we are compelled to think of other nations as bullies and they think of us as a bully, there will be danger of war. We dare not run the risk.

"We cannot reconcile Christianity with great preparations for war. War is a device for settling international disputes by killing men. All the instruments of war are perfected for the purpose of killing men. War means atrocity; it cannot do its work without them. War covers the earth with graves; it maims and cripples our best men; it starves the women and children."

"Has civilization no better way to settle disputes? Jesus told us the way 1900 years ago. He is the way. We made great sacrifices for war. Can we not make a few sacrifices for peace? It is better to sacrifice a few billions for peace than to sacrifice billions for war."

Woman Is Appointed On U. S. Civil Service Board

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 7.—The distinction of being the first woman to be appointed to an official position by President Harding goes to Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman of St. Louis.

Mrs. Brueggeman is popular in local society and adds to her brilliant

Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman
mind a winning personality. She was foremost in the Republican campaign among Missouri women last fall and was national committeewoman from her state and delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention in 1920.

The new duties of Mrs. Brueggeman take her to Washington, where she is on the commission that fixes claims of the civil service employees who require compensation for injuries while in the service. The commission is composed of two men and one woman. Mrs. Frances Axtell, of Bellingham, Wash., held the position on the commission during the war period.

To her new duties Mrs. Brueggeman brings experience of many kinds. She is a business woman, looking after her extensive interests. She is a politician and has been associated with the leading Missouri politicians for years. She is an organizer, having been made captain on the St. Louis motor brigade during the war.

Before receiving her most recent honors Mrs. Brueggeman held a position on the Republican state executive committee and also on the national advisory committee of Republican affairs. During the summer she was on the East coast and received her appointment and summons to the White House in an entirely unexpected way.

When visited recently in her home she was busy with plans for her work and removal of "household goods" to Washington. "To move for a period of six years is no small task," she explained, "and I have begun as early as possible."

"Of course I am pleased and so are my friends. I have always been interested in politics and was brought up in such an atmosphere, my father having dubbed me the 'little politician' on account of my interest. Now that we have the vote I feel it is up to us women to do our part when called on. I appreciate the honor conferred on me by our President and shall do my best to pave the way for similar appointments to women. I shall try to bring to my duties an

EXCAVATION GOES ON FAST FOR HOTEL

Contract for Wall Will be Let Soon as Work is Completed

The excavation for the Ambrosini Hotel is about half completed. It is expected that it will take a week longer to complete this work. Immediately after it has been finished the contract for the retaining wall will be let. The wall will extend 235 feet on Broadway and 229 feet on Glendale avenue and will be nine feet in height.

It is the policy of the Ambrosini Hotel Co. to let all the contracts for the construction of the hotel, as far as possible, in Glendale. Following out this policy, the company is inviting reputable contractors in Glendale to enter bids for the erection of this wall. Bids must be in at once and the work must be completed within 15 days after the contract is let. For this purpose, Mr. Ambrosini can be seen either at the hotel site or at 146 South Jackson street.

Immediately after the completion of the wall, contracts for the remainder of the building will be let and work will be rushed.

Canada's minister of labor has appointed a board of conciliation under the conciliation and disputes act to arbitrate the differences between the members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees in the service of the Canadian National Railways.

Intelligent opinion, for I feel keenly it is up to me as the first woman appointee of the President to make good."

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTEY AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

KEYSTONE CLUB WAS ORGANIZED HERE LAST THURSDAY

Dr. Collier is Named President of Ass'n. With Full List of Helpers

Participants in the Pennsylvania picnic held at Echo park Saturday numbered over 100. It proved a delightful affair and resulted in the organization of "The Pennsylvania Club of Glendale," with a full list of officers. Guests were seated at one long table for the picnic feast and the board fairly groaned with good things to eat of the Pennsylvania variety. Glendale having many fine cooks learned in the concoction of Pennsylvania dishes.

At the close of the dinner a photograph of the group was taken and then the program was given. It opened with a community song led by Rev. R. W. Mottern and began with "America." After that two compositions by Stephen Foster, whom Pennsylvania claims, were sung—"Old Folks at Home," and "Old Black Joe," also "The End of a Perfect Day," by Carrie Jacobs Bond of California.

Dr. Francis Collier made a fine talk on Pennsylvania, the origin of the name, the beauties of the "Keystone state" etc. Two original poems were read, one by Rev. R. W. Mottern of Pennsylvania in imitation of "Hiawatha," the other by Mr. Andrews, entitled, "Working."

Mrs. J. H. Daugherty read "Auntie Doleful," "Be a Friend," "Neighbors," and "The Land of Beginning Again," and D. F. Reynolds read "Teamster Jim," and "The Country Doctor."

At the conclusion of the program Mr. Andrews took charge of the meeting and at his suggestion formal organization as "The Glendale Pennsylvania Club," was effected and officers elected. They are, president, Dr. Francis Collier; vice president, Rev. R. W. Mottern; secretary, N. W. Andrews; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Fife; executive committee, Mrs. R. W. Mottern, W. H. Reynolds and A. J. Malarkey. The first Saturday in November was named as annual picnic day, and a vote of thanks was tendered the committee of arrangements, Dr. Collier, Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Mottern, Mrs. Morrow and W. H. Reynolds. The rest of the day was devoted to renewing old acquaintances and making new friends.

JAMES R. WYLIE IS HELD IN BABY CASE

Admits Threw Body of Infant in Garage Night of Oct. 24th

After a severe grilling by Police Chief Martin and Detective John Scales, late Saturday afternoon, James R. Wylie, 25 years old, of 467 West Maple street, confessed that he and his sister, Jessie Louise Wylie, aged 21, were the parents of the infant whose body was found in the garage at the rear of 517 West Park avenue Friday morning by C. B. Anthony. He said that he had placed it in the garage about 9 p. m. Monday, October 24.

He stated in his confession that he had brought his sister to Glendale about two years ago from Chicago for her health and that he and his sister had been living in this city since coming to California. Wylie was locked up at fire station No. 2 and his sister was arrested and is being held at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. Formal charges will not be filed against the pair until after the coroner's inquest, to be held Tuesday.

Suspicion of the pair was aroused the day before the body of the infant was found. Neighbors reported to the police and health department that the Wylies were acting strange and that there was something the matter at the house. A minor investigation was started and when the body was found, suspicion pointed to the Wylies. The garage where the body was found is about three blocks from the Wylie home.

Chief Martin, Detective Scales and Health Officer J. E. Eckles made an investigation Friday night, but no charge was preferred against the pair. Saturday the suspicions of the police were confirmed and the man was brought to police headquarters. He broke down and said that before he made another statement he wanted a lawyer. Harry C. Levy, an attorney practicing in Los Angeles and living in Glendale, was called, and after conferring with the attorney, Wylie made a complete confession.

The pair will be arraigned after the inquest. The woman seems unconcerned over her arrest. She does not seem surprised, and her only apparent worry is over securing some clothing and toilet articles from her home. A court order for a medical examination of the woman will probably be requested by the authorities.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

EVERY DAY

A little work for doing
Every day.
Some glad dreams for pursuing,
Every day.
A little time for laughter
And for tasks that follow after,
And to serve the Master Crafter
Every day.

A heart with sunlight gleaming
Every day.
A little time for dreaming
Every day.
Not any time for ruing,
But a lot of time for doing,
And some seed of good for sowing
Every day.

A friendly word for bringing
Every day.
A song of hope for singing
Every day.
And we'll heap life's golden measure
To the very brim of pleasure,
If we lay by just one treasure
Every day.

There's sometimes a bit of sadness
Every day.
But a road that leads to gladness,
And the way
We shall find like children playing,
When the dreams of us gone Maying,
And the kindly word for saying
Every day.

So we'll clasp hands a bit longer
Every day.
With the souls of us grown stronger
Every day.
With our friendships a bit dearer
And the eyes of us grown clearer
We shall see our joys come nearer
Every day.

Arrangements are now completed for the magnificent Pasadena Motor Car Show which is to be held in the Hotel Green. The show will open November 14 and will continue through the 19th. According to Arthur W. Marcy and Horace Kindel, publicity directors for the show, the coming motor car review will be the most spectacular and beautiful exhibition of its kind ever held in Pasadena.

In addition to the beautiful array of late model motor car creations there will be exquisite music, both vocal and instrumental, artistic decorations of wondrous flowers and a bevy of beautiful girls who will display the latest fashions from the Broadway department store. Two of Regan's orchestras will be present to furnish the music for the occasion. The fashion promenade will be featured on every other night, beginning the first evening. Both Mr. Marcy and Mr. Kindel stated that there will not be one dull moment during the entire time. "We are going into this thing in the right way," declared Mr. Marcy. "The automobile dealers are backing this motor car show 100 per cent and have appropriated enough money to carry it through in a manner that will make it a credit, not only to Pasadena but to the entire San Gabriel valley. We are not only expecting to draw a record breaking crowd from Pasadena but in that we have extended a cordial invitation to these cities tributary to us we are expecting them to send a large crowd also."

DISARMAMENT PLAN MISSIONARY CLUB HELD FINE SESSION UNITED STATES TO TEST STATESMEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The United States will offer to set the pace for the rest of the world in disarmament. At the coming arms conference, this Government will present a generous and far-reaching offer to limit the American navy within certain definite lines. It will thus enunciate a policy expressed to the United Press today by a member of the American delegation as "removing the armament beam from our own eyes before we ask our neighbors to remove the mote from theirs."

The American delegation is now preparing the American offer, together with the general plan for world armament limitation, concerning which the United Press made an exclusive announcement early in the present week. While details of the American offer are being closely guarded against publicity, it can be stated that they will, if put into effect, mean a more substantial reduction in expenditures for naval armament than many of the most optimistic have hoped for. Neither the American plan nor the general, world wide plan have been completely worked out. The navy department submitted in detail all the facts and figures needed for constructing workable projects of the armament limitation. In general it is possible to state the disposition of the American delegates has been to outline a program that really stops the race for world naval supremacy without leaving any nation with an unfair advantage.

The present strength of the leading navies, and their prospective strength upon completion of building programs already authorized, were both used by the experts in outlining the program. Members of the senate who were shown, in confidence, some of the preliminary calculations, said every indication pointed to the proposing by this Government of "a program that will test the faith and perhaps the courage of the world's statesmen."

DECOY SPLASHED DREAM OF NEALE

C. E. Neale is fond of ducks. There is nothing that he likes better than a wing or a leg of a nice roasted duck and this weakness has played upon Gus Wangerheim. Mr. Wangerheim received permission to take the day off last Tuesday to go duck hunting with the understanding that he was to bring Mr. Neale enough ducks for a meal. He returned from the expedition with almost the limit allowed by law. He gave Mr. Neale several ducks, among them being one he said was a wood duck.

Mr. Neale had never seen a wood duck and was anxious to learn about their anatomy. He performed the next to last sad rites for the defunct birds and cleaned them. After he had whittled on the wood duck for several minutes and failed to make an impression, he discovered that Wangerheim was telling the absolute truth when he branded the bird a wood duck. It was a decoy covered with feathers.

WEEKS ASKS LEGION MEN TO GIVE AID

At Rich's place anything can be purchased from a coil key for a Ford to a cord tire for a Packard. If they haven't got it they'll get it. These boys are pleased with the way Glendale people are treating them and they are determined to "come back" by quoting low prices on their goods. A large electric sign is now being made for the firm and will be hung in a short time.
